

Wedding Officiant Policies

Judge Karahan is committed to ensuring that your wedding day is the best experience possible for you and your beloved, and that you are completely satisfied with your wedding ceremony. Judge Karahan will perform the wedding officiant tasks professionally and ensure that your wedding day schedule and timing is respected. This requires that the communication between you and Judge Karahan is free, open and prompt.

All understanding about time, date, place, and the final ceremony, must be in writing and approved by the couple through email.

Any change to the ceremony date or time with less than 24 hours' notice is subject to an additional fee of $100. Judge Karahan will do his best to accommodate late changes, but this cannot be guaranteed due to other scheduled commitments. If Judge Karahan is unable to accommodate late-requested schedule changes (i.e. after deposit payment has been made and a date and time are agreed upon) the deposit is non-refundable. He will, if requested, assist in locating a suitable officiant replacement.

Any changes to the ceremony should be made in writing and transmitted to Judge Karahan as soon as possible.

Full payment for the ceremony and any additional fees, including mileage reimbursement, must be made before the ceremony begins. Payment may be made online at www.judgejaykarahan.com/weddings or in cash.

Should any agreed-upon wedding venue become dangerous (a serious risk of injury or death to any wedding participant, guest or the officiant) due to inclement weather or other unexpected circumstances, Judge Karahan reserves the right at his discretion to either 1) immediately cancel the event and reschedule to a more opportune venue, time and date, with clients' input, or 2) immediately move the event to his offices during weekday working hours where the wedding may take place with the happy couple and two guests maximum.
